DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's election without traverse of species B in the reply filed on 10/10/06 is acknowledged.

Specification

Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

The abstract of the disclosure is objected to because it contains 187 words, which is over the 150-word limit. Correction is required. See MPEP § 608.01(b).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) The invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-23 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by United States Patent Application Publication 2002/0072795 Green.

Green discloses the same invention being an intraocular replacement lens and method of inserting comprising a first positive lens 33 orientated close to the iris having a first and second edges connected to a flexible joint fulcrum 42s which have haptics 40 extending therefrom and second negative lens 37 having a third and forth edges orientated away from the iris connected to a flexible joint fulcrums 42, which have haptics 40 extending therefrom. The haptics function in a scissor like manor to move the positive lens a predetermined distance along the optical axis relative to the negative lens, wherein the movement of the haptics is inversely proportional to the movement of the lenses.
